(5) A student who will return to his/her home institution to continue his/her study after the end of the exchange period.

(*A final-year-final semester student would normally NOT be considered.)

(6) A student who can acquire the status of residence (visa status) as "college student".

(7) A student who has sufficient proficiency in Japanese or English Language.

(* Except for partner universities in the United States and Europe, submission of an official certificate proving Japanese or English language proficiency is mandatory.)

(8) A student recommended by his/her academic advisor of the home institution.

(9) A student whose studies at AUE will not be impeded by health conditions.

(10) A student who can cooperate with questionnaires and surveys conducted by AUE after returning to his/her home country.

5. Academic Requirements

Applicants need a cumulative Grade Point Average (GPA) (of the previous academic year) of 2.30 or higher when calculated according to the following calculation method.

(※) In the case that the applicant's performance cannot be evaluated through GPA, the reason shall be clearly mentioned in the Letter of Recommendation why the applicant's academic performance can be regarded as equivalent to GPA 2.30 or higher.

[GPA Calculation Method]

Obtain Grade Point according to the conversion table below and calculate the GPA, applying the formula given below. (Calculate GPA to three places of decimals and round it off.)

	Academic Performance Evaluation
4-level evaluation (Pattern 1)		Excellent	Good	Pass	Fail
4-level evaluation (Pattern 2)		A	B	C	F
4-level evaluation (Pattern 3)		100-80	79-70	69-60	59 or lower
5-level evaluation (Pattern 4)	100-90	89-80	79-70	69-60	59 or lower
5-level evaluation (Pattern 5)	S	A	B	C	F
5-level evaluation (Pattern 6)	A	B	C	D	F
Grade Point	3	3	2	1	0

(Calculation formula)

$\{(\text{number of '3-point' credits} \times 3) + (\text{number of '2-point' credits} \times 2) + (\text{number of '1-point' credits} \times 1) + (\text{number of '0-point' credits} \times 0)\} \div \text{total number of credits registered}$
